

November 15th, 2012, Thursday, 18:00

Denys Pilash

STUDENT PROTEST ACTIONS: FROM CHILE TO QUEBEC

These days the student movement is rising all over the world. But far not in every country has it reached such a scale as in Chile and Canadian province Quebec, where it has become one of the main factors of social life. What was the reason for student protest activities? What did they manage to achieve, and what still has not changed? What can Ukrainian libertarian student movement learn from these events? And, finally, who is cooler – Camila Vallejo, or Anarchopanda?

Denys Pilash – PhD student at National Taras Shevchenko University of Kyiv, "Direct Action" and "Left Opposition" activist.

Within the framework of Education Week and Global Education Strike